Twrp Dipper SOLVED: upgrade Driver with Twrp Dipper Root Hexxer Ibaka Htc E9 Firmware SOLVED: upgrade Driver with Htc E9 Firmware When I turned on my 3300w today, I had a message that there was an 8 minute update. I applied it, but don't see any changes and I can't find any list of updates/changes. Did anyone else get this update notice or know what's in it? Welcome to the Forum. If it's a new firmware update then Denon are often very slow at publishing the changelog so it may not be known for several weeks. Not unusual. 'My opinions expressed here do not represent those of the AVForums or its associated websites'. Mine had an update just now - 11 mins. Not sure yet of the exact changes Hi-Fi: Primare NP5+LinearPSU, Pro-Ject 2kperience SB-AT VM740ML/Atlas Integra, Marantz SA-KI Ruby, Marantz PM-KI Ruby, Atlas Hyper Bi-Wire, MA Gold 200 5G, AV: Pioneer BDP-320, Sony UBP-X800, Denon AVR-3300W, AE/REL. I received mine too today, but I can't find any changelog on what is in it. Does anyone have any insight? Thanks! Exciting times, I'll check my updates later and see if there is one on AVR-X400 series too. Does this Receiver support HDR10+ Would really like to know. Does this Receiver support HDR10+ Would really like to know. No. You will need the X3700 for that as it was only added to the 2021 models. Does it really make that much different? I don't think my TV supports it anyway so not really an issue. I mainly want 4K & the Atmos soundtrack to play from my 4k Blu Ray player. Does it really make that much different? I don't think my TV supports it anyway so not really an issue. I mainly want 4K & the Atmos soundtrack to play from my 4k Blu Ray player. Not many discs with it on and it does seem to be losing the war against Dolby Vision. If you have a blu ray player that is HDR10+ capable and it has dual HDMI outputs then connect one for video direct to the TV and the second audio HDMI into the Denon. This is the method I use, why I do not know as my 4K layer was due a firmware upgrade in the spring of 2019. I would say it a little overdue right now. Can't say I even want it now. This receiver has Dolby Vision right? would you say its a good Receiver? picking one up tomorrow for E350 cash so seems like a steal and its hard getting the new Denon models at E650 point. I mainly just want 4k to work with my TV and have a Atmos setup. You will need 4k enhanced and run Audyssey to get the best out of it. There is a set up wizard onboard that will walk you through the procedure. I've always had Denon AV amps. Please use the procedure below to revert the AVR's firmware back to the initial firmware version as this will allow your AVR to reconnect to the network and then receive the current firmware version once again. Please note, you will need to redo the setup for your AVR after the new firmware has been installed. We apologize for the inconvenience. We recommend saving your settings using the Save/Load option in the GUI (General - Save/Load) once the current update is complete. You will need a USB drive in order to do this. Firmware Regression (Factory Restore) Procedure: - Put the unit in Standby (Zones powered off) - Press and hold the "Button A" and "Button B" buttons on the front panel. - While holding in the above buttons power on the unit. - You will see "Restoring FW. ." on the display. Once you see that, release the 2 buttons and give it about 10 minutes to complete.
